About the SCHOOL

The University School of Social Sciences at Rayat Bahra University stands as a premier centre for excellence in liberal arts, humanities, and behavioural sciences. In an era dominated by rapid technological shifts and evolving global dynamics, the School plays a vital role in providing the essential human context to education and development.

Through a dynamic and interdisciplinary curriculum, the University School of Social Sciences fosters graduates who are not only highly employable but also empathetic leaders, effective communicators, and analytical problem-solvers. The School emphasizes holistic development by blending academic knowledge with real-world exposure, research opportunities, and community engagement.
